Orton Asks For Input on CUP

2001

Congressman-elect Bill Orton is tentatively planning to come to Wasatch County for a public meeting on Jan. 9, but at press time the exact time and place had not been set.

Orton wants input on national issues from local citizens, particularly on the Central Utah Project. The county commissioners hope to be able to talk to him in detail about provisions in the pending CUP funding bill that can be seriously detrimental to the county.

The Utah delegation is confident the bill, appropriating between $700 million and $900 million to complete the CUP project, will be passed by the legislature soon after it reconvenes. Orton is sending questionnaires to many elected and appointed officials in the 3rd district, asking for their opinions and concerns about the CUP project before going to Washington, D.C. for his first term in office. But he stresses that he wants to hear from anyone who would like to comment.

Letters may be sent to Congressman Bill Orton at 88 W. 100 North, No. 105, Provo, UT 84601, or 32 Exchange Place, Suite 100, Salt Lake City UT 84111.

funds, would be difficult to enforce, and that the department doesn't have the power to ban trucks except when they present a hazard. The Transportation Commission passed a resolution saying it would neither limit nor restrict truck traffic on the highway without specific, documented recommendations from the Utah Air Conservation Committee.

By the end of the year, construction had started up again, and design schedules were announced that indicated the new highway might be completed sooner than the ten years first announced.

A few weeks ago, environmentimes during the year and discussed the possibility that wildlife habitat would be destroyed by traffic along the parkway, possibly including some endangered species, and other environmental concerns. The year ended without any specific announcements of final plans from the bureau or Hansen. But the pending CUP funding bill allocates $8.5 million for stream access and riparian habitat development, which could be used for buying up property along the river for the park.

expanding its sphere of influence into county by adding Telemark Park to its Annexation Declaration Policy. The development is located mostly in Wasatch County but crosses into Park City. The city planning department claims traffic from Telemark would have to great an impact on three Deer Valley neighborhoods and on Heber Ave. The Telemark developer McKay Edwards, called the move "hostile."

Edwards amended his plans to satisfy Park City concerns and there has been no indication that the city plans to continue the process of
